Building and Maintaining a Business Advisory Board

A Business Advisory Board (BAB), if utilized to its maximum potential, can serve as an asset to your Enactus team. BAB members can provide resources that will help create sustainability within your organization by serving in the following capacities:

- Providing guidance and mentorship
- Introducing you to other business leaders in the community
- Suggesting project ideas
- Providing access to needed resources
- Funding opportunities
- Giving feedback on projects and your presentation

By identifying key individuals in your immediate community who will add value, your BAB then becomes a vital part of your team's success. Consider looking at the following groups and strategies to help build your BAB:

Enactus Partner Companies in your community

- Send the applicable store or organization manager a letter introducing your Enactus team (be prepared to explain Enactus)
- Follow up with a personal phone call
- Create a Business Advisory Board packet to give the potential member (Packet can contain an Enactus recruitment piece, a copy of your team's annual report, and a project proposal)

Leading business, educational and civic organizations in your community

Organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and economic development groups in your area have monthly meetings to discuss local issues. This is a great opportunity to discuss Enactus, your Enactus team and how they can become involved.

Local businesses with an interest in and ability to provide guidance and materials

Organizations such as financial institutions can provide information and materials for projects such as opening and maintaining a bank account, as well as investing for your future projects.

Members of the mass media

Invite members of the local mass media to join your BAB (i.e. newspapers, news stations and radio stations). This can help you receive media attention.

Enactus alumni

Involve previous team members who are now in the workforce and in your immediate area to join your BAB. Alumni are familiar with the organization and can assist in recruiting new members.

Engaging Business Advisory Board Members

After you have created your Business Advisory Board, it is important to involve the members in team activities. We suggest meeting with your BAB at the beginning of the year to review your planned projects. This is a great opportunity for members to give their advice and sign up to be a part of projects that align with their interests.

Consider the following strategies for working with your BAB:

- Hold a beginning of the year meeting to review your plan for the new year and introduce new members. Be sure to invite the BAB members to your team meetings as well.
- Create a monthly newsletter to inform your BAB about team activities and upcoming projects. Consider highlighting a few team members each month so the BAB can get to know your team.
- Hold another meeting prior to competition to practice your presentation. Ask the members to serve as judges and have them give you feedback.

Business Advisory Board Frequently Asked Questions

- What does a Business Advisory Board do?
A Business Advisory Board is designed to advise the team on issues of strategic importance and provide support and guidance for the achievement of the team's mission statement. The BAB meets to discuss key issues and makes recommendations to the team. Note that this is different from a Board of Directors, which usually makes decisions on behalf of an organization. A BAB is for advice, not governance.

What are the benefits of establishing a Business Advisory Board?

There are three main benefits for a team to establish a Business Advisory Board:

- Sustainability of the team – Having a BAB provides continuity to a team over the long term. A BAB also brings credibility to a team, making it easier to build stable partnerships and obtain sponsorship.
- Expertise and advice – BAB members bring a wide range of backgrounds and real-world experience to the table that can be applied to situations faced by the team. BAB members can also act as mentors to students in specific areas.
- Resources – In addition to their expertise and advice, BAB members can provide a wealth of other resources. Such resources include networking contacts, sponsorship, employment/volunteer experiences, access to facilities or equipment and more.

Who should be on the Business Advisory Board?

The Business Advisory Board can be composed of representatives from the community. This mix of people might include:

- Other faculty at your institution
- Alumni of your team or alumni from other teams that now work in your area

- Local business representatives
- Media/public relations representatives
- Not-for-profit representatives
- Any other individuals (i.e. philanthropists, retired professionals) that complement the
- mix and can provide advice in key strategic areas.

How big/small should the Business Advisory Board be?

There is no ideal size, but corporate boards are generally contained between 10 and 15 people. Factors to consider when determining size include:

- Manageability – Large BABs can be more difficult to manage in terms of meeting space, administration and communication needs.
- Budget – Variable costs, such as refreshments/lunches and appreciation gifts, should be taken into account.
- Sustainability – Teams, particularly those in small communities, should be careful not to 'use up' all BAB members at once. Establish set terms of up to three years and rotate if necessary.
- Diversity – Ensure that there are enough members to provide a variety of backgrounds and perspectives.
- Responsibility – If a BAB is too small, members may feel overburdened. On the other hand, if a BAB is too large members may defer responsibility to the others in the group.

How often should the Business Advisory Board meet?

Meetings should be held on a quarterly basis at minimum – anything less and there may not be enough contact between members to ensure effectiveness. New boards may wish to hold more frequent meetings at first to enable members to become familiar with Enactus, students and each other.

In addition to quarterly BAB meetings, BAB members can be invited to participate in other events, such as networking socials, presentation practices and various project-related events. BABs may also choose to form committees to deal with specific issues, which require meetings outside of the quarterly meetings. This variety of events ensures that BAB members have ample opportunity to participate and contribute.

What level of commitment should be expected from Business Advisory Board members?

Teams should have realistic expectations of Business Advisory Board members, since they tend to be busy people with a number of priorities and commitments to juggle. Here are some tips to maintain a satisfactory level of commitment from BAB members:

- Be clear about expectations from the onset through the BAB Member Handbook and initial discussions.
- Schedule meetings and events as early as possible to increase attendance. It also helps if meetings are scheduled on a certain day, such as the first Thursday of the month.
- Record action items in the minutes of each meeting and be sure to follow up with those responsible for their completion.
- Establish a term (between one and three years) for BAB members to serve so they know they have a finite period to provide support and commitment to the team.
- Ensure open communication with BAB members so that they still feel 'in the loop' even if they miss a meeting or an event.

If there is concern that BAB members are not demonstrating an adequate level of commitment, consider other roles they could play that might be more suitable to their availability. For example, perhaps a member could step down from the Business Advisory Board but continue to participate on a committee.

What role should the team play on the Business Advisory Board?

All Executive Leadership (i.e. leadership council, project leaders, etc.) members should be invited and encouraged to attend meetings, either all at once or on a rotational basis depending on the size of the Executive Leadership team. Other team members can also be invited to attend or to participate. One way to encourage the attendance of team members is to invite them to prepare and deliver the team update at the beginning of each Business Advisory Board meeting. In a meeting setting, all students should feel that they are able to participate openly in discussions. They should also be prepared to respond to specific questions from BAB members.

Overall, a member of the team should support the coordination and management of the Business Advisory Board. This includes compiling information requested, identifying potential members, and ensuring that the guidance and expertise provided by the BAB is appreciated and properly used.

How much money does it cost to run a Business Advisory Board?

Costs can generally be incurred for the following expenses:

- Printing BAB materials
- Facility rental for meetings
- Refreshments and/or lunch for meetings
- Appreciation gifts

These costs can usually be covered through in-kind sponsorships. The team's institution may provide meeting space and other resources for free. As well, the team may wish to partner with a business support organization, such as a business development center, an industry association or business incubators, in the administration of its Business Advisory Board. These organizations may also be able to cover the cost of meeting space and other expenses.

Who should be the coordinator and/or chair?

The Business Advisory Board coordinator is ideally someone else who is independent of the team, yet familiar with and dedicated to Enactus. In addition to being able to commit to the BAB for at least a year, this individual should have good organization, communication and time management skills. In your search for a coordinator, the team should promote the following benefits – building valuable relationships within the community, gaining experience in corporate governance and ethics, and enhancing the skill sets mentioned above.

The chair, like the coordinator, is ideally independent of the team, yet familiar with and dedicated to Enactus. This individual should have the skills and experience required to manage a meeting, keep discussions on topic and on schedule, mediate any conflicts, etc. While this position requires a strong commitment to the team and consistent attendance at meetings, it does not involve as much behind-the-scenes work as the coordinator position.

If necessary, one individual could play the roles of both the coordinator and chair. However, the position of chair is a great opportunity to encourage members of the community to play a key role in the team. For example, a chair (and a vice-chair, if necessary) can be appointed from among the Business Advisory Board members and rotate every so often. This will allow for enhanced participation of BAB members in the management of the BAB.

What will Business Advisory Board members expect in return? How can we show appreciation for them?

Business Advisory Board members will often appreciate just knowing they are able to work with students to play a role in advancing the mission of the team. Thus, first and foremost, it is important to ensure that all BAB members have a role to play so that their time, effort and expertise are being used in a valuable way. It is also a good idea to show appreciation throughout the year by giving small gifts and presenting certificates of participation. Recognizing BAB members for their participation in local media outlets may also be a sign of appreciation.

Be aware that there are other ways to ‘give back’ to BAB members and the organizations they represent. Some organizations are looking for access to bright entrepreneurial students for recruitment purposes. Some organizations may be looking for a partner organization or student volunteers for projects or events. Be sure you understand the expectations of your BAB members and how your team can ensure that relationships with BAB members are mutually beneficial.

Scheduling

Quarterly meetings will be announced at the last meeting of the year for the following year. For additional meetings, Business Advisory Board members will be polled by the coordinator to determine availability. The final date will be announced at least two weeks prior to the meeting.

Attendance

Business Advisory Board members must provide notification of their anticipated attendance at meetings to the coordinator. Members who miss three consecutive meetings without notification will be requested to reconsider their commitment to the BAB.

Other Events

Attendance

Notification of attendance at other events is not required. However, BAB members should recognize the rewards and opportunities associated with attending events, and should make an effort to attend at least one such event each year.

Materials

Agendas

Draft agendas for regularly scheduled meetings will be determined at the first Business Advisory Board meeting of the year, creating a 'work plan' for the year (see below). At least two weeks prior to a meeting, the coordinator will distribute a draft agenda for that meeting. BAB members will be given a maximum of one week to propose any changes. The coordinator will distribute a final agenda at least one week prior to the meeting. The agenda will be approved at the beginning of each meeting.

Work Plan

An annual Business Advisory Board Work Plan allocates each of the BAB responsibilities to a specific meeting agenda. The work plan also identifies the BAB information requirements for each item and who is accountable for providing the BAB with that information.

Minutes

The secretary records all events, recommendations and action items in the minutes of each meeting. The minutes are then finalized by the coordinator and distributed to the Business Advisory Board and the executives within one week of the meeting. The minutes are then approved at the start of the next meeting. If any changes are required, the secretary will provide a revised version of the minutes of the last meeting within one week of the current meeting.

At least two weeks in advance of the first meeting of the year, the Business Advisory Board will receive the following materials:

- A letter confirming participation on the BAB for the year
- A profile of BAB members for the year

Any other materials can be requested by the BAB at any time. The team will provide these materials for distribution at least two weeks in advance of the next BAB meeting, unless otherwise agreed.

As the Business Advisory Board makes recommendations rather than decisions, Enactus [team name] is ultimately accountable for its own actions.

- Exercise due diligence, using a level of judgment and care that person would reasonably be expected to do under particular circumstances
- Act in good faith, in the best interest of Enactus [team name]
- Avoid conflicts of interest
- Obtain a degree of confidence in monitoring the integrity and ability of the executive team members
- Be diligent with regard to BAB meetings and obtaining information
- Respect confidentiality (see next section)

The results of BAB evaluations and other such practices will also be kept confidential.

Written Records

The minutes and other written records will respect the principle of non-attribution. Deliberations will remain confidential until there is a general agreement and consensus.

Sample Business Advisory Board Meeting Agenda

Date: [Enter Date]

Time: [Enter Time]

Location: [Enter Location]

[Time] Welcome and introductions

Everyone around the table should always introduce themselves as a courtesy to other attendees.

[Time] Review and approval of the agenda

Everyone at the meeting should have a copy of the agenda (the coordinator should bring a few extra copies). To approve the agenda, one BAB member must make a motion to approve the agenda, and another member must second that motion. The chair then approves the agenda. If changes are required, they are added.

[Time] Review and approval of the last meeting minutes

Approval of the minutes follows the same procedure as approval of agenda (above). If changes are required, the coordinator ensures that the updated minutes are distributed.

[Time] Update from Enactus [team name]

The update should be brief and should include announcements, events, projects and other items of importance. It can be accompanied by a written document and submitted to the BAB members in advance. The responsibility for this update can be rotated among executive team members. This is also a good opportunity to invite other team members to participate in a BAB meeting.

[Time] Discussion of key topics

Meetings should include discussion of one to three key topics of strategic importance. If more than three topics are discussed, there may not be enough time to address each properly. Topics can include organizational issues, major projects or reports from committees (if applicable). For example:

- Discussion of student recruitment strategy
- Discussion of project XYZ
- Report from the Finance Committee

[Time] Other business

This is an opportunity to discuss any items not scheduled on the agenda, or to arrange an item to be included in the next meeting's agenda.

[Time] Next meeting/event

This includes a reminder of the next regularly scheduled meeting and any other upcoming events, such as networking functions, presentation practices or projects that BAB members may be interested in attending.

[Time] Adjournment

Regularly scheduled meetings should be between 1 and 1 ½ hours. If a meeting is shorter, there may not be enough time to discuss all pertinent items. If it is longer, attendance may suffer.

List of Action Items:

- Make discussed change to minutes of last meeting and distribute to the BAB members within one week
- Prepare a document of results on Project A
- Submit revised strategy for next semester to BAB for next meeting
- Select project leader for Project B
- Distribute financial statements for the year

Include a highlighted list of action items on the front page of the minutes for easy reference. The coordinator should follow up on all action items with those responsible for their completion (in brackets), especially if information or materials related to action items must be distributed to the BAB for the next meeting or by a specific date.

[Time] {Agenda Item}

Following the list of action items, record notes by Agenda item. Include reference documents, action items and the initials of members when appropriate.

Notes on recording the minutes, in order to keep them short and to the point:

- To avoid including excess detail in the minutes, make reference to other documents (notes of committee meetings, etc.)
- Rather than include 'he said, she said' discussions in the minutes, discuss with the chair how to manage discussions so that a consensus is reached on all key issues
- Whenever possible, encourage recommendations and action items for inclusion in the minutes

Enactus is an international non-profit organization that brings together student, academic and business leaders who are committed to using the power of entrepreneurial action to improve the quality of life and standard of living for people in need.
